Medford, Ore., June 1, 2026 – Hunter Communications is pleased to announce the appointment of Vaseem MV as its new Chief Information Officer (CIO), joining the company’s Executive Leadership Team during a significant period of growth and expansion.

As Hunter Communications continues expanding its fiber network and investing in new communities across Oregon, the company remains focused on building a strong foundation for sustainable growth through reliable, scalable technology operations. In his new role, Vaseem will lead Hunter’s technology strategy, systems modernization, AI initiatives, and digital platforms to support the company’s long-term vision.

“Hunter Communications has built an impressive reputation for delivering exceptional fiber connectivity and customer service to communities across Oregon,” said Vaseem MV, Chief Information Officer at Hunter Communications. “I look forward to building scalable technology solutions that enhance the customer experience, strengthen our operations, and support the company’s success.”

Vaseem brings extensive telecommunications and technology leadership experience to Hunter Communications. Most recently, he served as Senior Vice President of Systems and IT at Ziplly Fiber.

“Vaseem’s deep industry expertise and proven ability to modernize technology operations make him a valuable addition to our executive team,” said Michael Wynschenk, Chief Executive Officer of Hunter Communications. “As we continue expanding our fiber network and investing in new communities, we are also investing in the technology infrastructure needed to support long-term growth.”

Hunter Communications continues to invest in expanding its fiber network throughout Oregon, delivering multi-gig internet speeds, locally based customer service, and dependable connectivity to the communities it serves.
